The all-in-one wallet on WhatsApp

Effective 1 September 2026 until updated. All fees include VAT.

WaPay is not a bank or financial institution. WaPay is a digital voucher and payments service delivered over WhatsApp, operating on licensed payment rails. Terms, conditions and product rules apply. wapay.co.za

HELLO, MONEY

Pricing that fits in one message.

Banks publish 40-page fee brochures with asterisks on their asterisks. Ours fits on a few friendly pages, because the model is simple: the everyday things are free, the rest is one flat fee you can say out loud. No percentages. No 'per R1,000'. No monthly anything. And every fee is shown in the chat before you confirm.

Free by default

Sending to WaPay users, airtime, data, electricity, bills and shopping: R0.

Flat fees only

A fee is a number, not a formula. R6 means R6 — on R100 or R5,000.

See it before you pay it

The fee shows in chat before you say yes. No statements, no surprises.

Voucher network fees are charged by the voucher issuer and deducted from the voucher value before credit — WaPay adds no loading fee of its own.

Why flat fees?

Because 'R6' is a price and '1.2% min R5 per R1,000 or part thereof' is a maths exam. You should never need a calculator to know what your own money costs to move.

The short version

Everyday money is free on WaPay, you start with zero paperwork, and every fee is one flat number you approve in the chat. That's the whole pitch.

THE SMALL PRINT

Clear, even down here.

- All fees in this guide include VAT and are effective from 1 September 2026 until we publish an update at wapay.co.za.
- WaPay is not a bank or financial institution. WaPay does not hold bank deposits, earn you interest, or operate bank accounts. WaPay enables you to purchase, store, send and redeem digital value through the WhatsApp platform, delivered on licensed voucher and payment networks.
- Every applicable fee is shown to you in the chat before you confirm a transaction. If a partner network changes a fee, the price in your chat is always the one that counts.
- Voucher purchases are final once confirmed. Voucher redemptions and retailer acceptance follow each partner network's rules. Expired or used vouchers cannot be reused.
- Loading via voucher networks (BluVoucher, 1Voucher, OTT) carries the network's standard fee, deducted from the voucher value before credit. WaPay does not add a loading fee of its own.
- Cash-outs and bank transfers are paid from your cash balance, which requires a once-off FICA identity verification as required by South African law. Transaction and balance limits apply per our partners and compliance policy.
- You must be 18 years or older with a valid South African mobile number. Accounts are linked to your WhatsApp number and protected by PIN and OTP. Never share your PIN or OTP with anyone — including anyone claiming to be WaPay.
- We may change fees or introduce new fees from time to time with reasonable notice, published at wapay.co.za. If this guide and a product's specific terms disagree, the product terms apply.
- Fees for comparison shown from other providers' published pricing guides; see the source note on the comparison page. We strive for accuracy and are not responsible for errors or omissions.
